

A Guide to Setting Up Meeting Charges on StreamNode

StreamNode offers subject experts the ability to set meeting charges for their streaming sessions. This guide provides simple and concise instructions on how to set up meeting charges on StreamNode. Whether you're a new or moderate web user, follow these steps to easily configure your charges. Let's begin!

1. Logging in and Accessing the Meeting-Charges Section

Start by logging in to your StreamNode host account using your credentials. Once logged in, navigate to the host's dashboard. Locate the left-side navigation menu and click on the "Meeting-Charges" section. This will take you to the meeting charges management area, where you can set up and modify your charges effortlessly.

2. Creating New Meeting Charges

Within the Meeting-Charges section, you'll find two options in the dropdown menu: "List" and "Add-Charges." Choose "Add-Charges" to create new meeting charges. A new window titled "Add Meeting Charges" will appear on your screen.

3. Providing Charge Details

In the "Add Meeting Charges" window, you need to fill in the following information:

- Duration In Minutes: Specify the time duration for which you will charge users.
- Currency: Select currency (USD) as the currency for the charges.
- Amount: Indicate the monetary value you wish to charge users for the specified duration.

4. Saving the Meeting Charges

After entering the required details, click the "Save" button to save your meeting charges. The charges will be added to your list of available charges for streaming sessions.

Congratulations! You have successfully set up meeting charges on StreamNode. Remember to review and update your charges as needed. For further assistance or any additional questions, reach out to our dedicated customer support team. Enjoy your streaming sessions with StreamNode!
