Setting Up General Settings on StreamLode: A Guide for New Users

StreamLode is a streaming website that provides a platform for subject experts to reach potential customers from around the world. This guide aims to assist new users in setting up their general settings on StreamLode. By following these simple steps, you can customize your profile, manage tags, update your password, and manage important details. Let's get started!

1. Logging in/Registering as a Host

To begin, you need to log in to your host account using your credentials. If you haven't registered as a host yet, please refer to our Setting Up StreamLode as a Host guide to complete the registration process. Once you have logged in as a host, you will be redirected to the host's dashboard.

2. Accessing the Profile Section

Within the host's dashboard, locate the left-side navigation menu. From the menu, click on the "Profile" section. This will reveal a dropdown menu with three options.

3. Setting Up General Settings

Among the dropdown options, select "Generals" to access the General Settings page. A new profile window will appear on your screen, displaying various fields and options for customization.

4. Customizing Your Profile

In the General Settings window, you can manage the following details:

- Profile Picture: Upload or update your profile picture to personalize your StreamLode account.
- Name: Enter your name or the name you want to show to potential clients.
- Email: Provide your email address for communication purposes. Guests will be able to see your email address. This is also the email address you will use to log onto the site.

- Social Media Links: Add links to your social media profiles to connect with your audience. Leave the http//: or https:// off the address.
- Description/Bio: Write a brief description or bio that introduces yourself and your content to viewers. Discuss the information you can provide to potential customers.
- Additionally, you will find a toggle button that allows you to switch between a private or public profile on StreamLode. Private will keep your page hidden from the host page. You will still be charged monthly by the site.

5. Managing Tags

Within the Profile section dropdown, you will find the "Tags" option. Click on Tags to access the Tags' management page. Here, you can add tags related to the topics or genres of your streaming content. This helps viewers find your content more easily.

6. Changing Your Password

Similarly, within the Profile section dropdown, you will find the "Change Password" option. Click on Change Password to update your password. Follow the prompts to enter your current password and set a new password for your StreamLode account. Never share your password with anyone. You also have the option to reset your password on the login screen.

7. Saving Your Changes

Once you have made the desired updates and customizations, click the "Update" button to save your changes. Your general settings, tags, and password will be successfully updated in StreamLode.

Congratulations! You have now completed the process of setting up general settings, managing tags, and updating your password on StreamLode. These steps provide new users with the necessary instructions to configure their profiles, manage tags, and enhance account security.
